CHRISTMAS DINNER RECIPES

by Mat Gauer, featured Thursdays on Ladies First, on CBWT and CBXT.

STUFFING FOR TURKEY

(15 lbs.)

- 1 loaf day-old bread crumbs
- 1 tbsp. sage
- 1 tsp. salt
- Pepper
- 1/8 tsp. ginger
- 1/2 tsp. rosemary
- 1/2 tsp. thyme
- 1 tsp. parsley—1/2 tsp. savory
- 1 large chopped onion
- 2 stalks celery, chopped
- 4 tbsp. butter
- 1 apple
- 1/2 lb. sausage meat

Melt butter, saute onion and celery. Mix with bread crumbs, adding other seasonings as well as chopped apple and sausage meat.

TURKEY GRAVY

- 6 tbsp. fat from pan
- 6 tbsp. flour
- 2 cups stock from giblets and remaining de-greased sauce from pan

Melt fat in pan, add flour, blending until slightly brown. Gradually add stock and cook until thickened. Correct seasoning.

SQUASH & PEAS

- 1 hubbard squash
- 2 tbsp. butter
- 2 tbsp. brown sugar
- 1 pkg. cooked peas

Cut squash in half, remove seeds and into well put butter and sugar. Bake in pan on rack in one inch water until just tender—about 45 minutes. Remove and fill centre with buttered and parsleyed peas. Place on platter.

For Your Enjoyment on Christmas Day

THE FAMILY gathered 'round the livingroom — a fine meal, the exchange of gifts, a brightly-lit tree, laughter and good spirits: this is the traditional picture of Christmas Day in Canada. And in recent years, supplementing the celebration, have been CBC Radio and Television, with widely varied, outstanding programming fitted specially to the occasion.

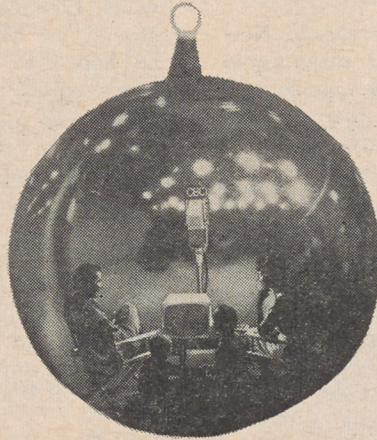

Mentioned below are the network programs to be seen and heard on Christmas Day. For further details, and information concerning local and regional programming, see the notes and features throughout this issue.

The annual Commonwealth Message from Her Majesty the Queen will be carried on the radio and television networks Christmas morning. (The message will be repeated on television and radio in the evening.) The message will be followed, both on radio and television, by greetings from Prime Minister Diefenbaker, followed in turn by season's greetings from J. Alphonse Ouimet, president of the CBC.

Radio network service begins at 8:35 a.m., when Max Ferguson and his "friends" give their own inimitable introduction to the day, with music by Stu Davis from Edmonton. The next highlight of network programming is the annual Commonwealth Broadcast at 9:30 a.m. This year's program has been produced by the New Zealand Broadcasting Corporation, and its theme is "The Challenge of Change." The world's first woman prime minister, Mrs. Bandaranaike of Ceylon, will be a contributor to the broadcast, and from more than a dozen other Commonwealth countries — including Jamaica, Tonga, Canada, India, Pakistan, Hong Kong, Sarawak and Britain — will come accounts of social changes, which are moving at a faster pace than ever before.

At 10:30, Music for a Christmas Morning, a 90-minute program of readings from the Scriptures interspersed with music sung by the Festival Singers of Toronto, under the direction of Elmer Iseler, is heard.

The early afternoon will be devoted to a series of programs originating in the CBC's regional centres across the country. At

1:15, from St. John's, Newfoundland, singer Lew Murphy, a vocal octet, and the Ralph Walker Trio will be featured on Come All Ye 'Round. Folk-singer Tom Kines and his family will bring musical Christmas greetings from Ottawa on Kines' Family Christmas at 1:30, and The Tamburitians, from Windsor, Ontario, will present carols from many lands at 1:45. Light music from Halifax, by the Dave Woods orchestra and chorus, will be heard on A Touch of Tinsel, at 2:03, and the annual Armed Services Show, Hits and Mistletoe, will be presented at 2:30. This year's program will feature recorded excerpts from some of the shows put on by the CBC Concert Party during its recent tour of NATO bases in Europe. Singers Lorraine McAllister, Frances Jordan, Maurice Pearson and Bob Stone, with the Bud Henderson Quintet, will be heard from CBC Vancouver at 3:00 p.m., on The Christmas Song Book, and from Montreal, at 3:30, will come In a Festive Mood, another program of light music.

At 5:00 p.m., CBC Radio will present The Shepherd, a program prepared by freelance broadcaster Barbara Greene, in which a 75-year-old English shepherd talks about his solitary life and the personal philosophy that he has evolved through the years. At 5:35 p.m., following the news, a service from the historical RCMP chapel in Regina, the annual pre-Christmas parade, will be broadcast, followed at 7:00 by the news, and a repeat of the Queen's and Prime Minister's Messages.

At 7:30, Assignment will present a special program entitled The Spirit of Wisdom. Prepared by John Scott and Bill McNeil, the program will consist of readings from the writings of leading scholars and philosophers through the ages, and recordings of talks by Sir Winston Churchill, Will Durant, Bertrand Russell, Gandhi, Albert Einstein and others. On Radio International, at 8:00 p.m., listeners will hear choral music by three great masters of the late Renaissance—Victoria, Byrd, and Lassus—sung by the Ambrosian Singers conducted by Denis Stevens, with organist Charles Spinks. At 8:30, Eric Wild will conduct his Winnipeg musicians in a Christmas Pops Concert which will include the Carol Symphony by Victor Hely-Hutchinson. A comedy-drama by David Brock, entitled An Impromptu Christmas, produced in Vancouver by Gerald Newman, will be heard at 9:00 p.m., and at 9:30 Canada's top comedy team, Wayne and Shuster, will return to radio to do a half-hour of comedy and music. # A Child's Christmas in Wales

is put into photographs*

WHEN MARTIN LICHTNER, a 32-year-old New York freelance still photographer, was majoring in English literature at the University of Connecticut, the Welsh writer Dylan Thomas went there to read some of his own shaggy, vividly evocative words for the students. Lichtner was deeply impressed by the startling freshness of Thomas' images, and by the warmth of his unusual voice bringing them to life.

Years later, when Lichtner had become a professional photographer, and was looking around for some project which would use the full range of his photographic talents, he conceived the idea of trying to get the film and TV rights to Dylan Thomas' classic tale, A Child's Christmas in Wales (which has become, in many ways, the Dickens' A Christ- mas Carol of our time), and the rights to the recording of the work which Thomas made for Caedmon Records a year or two before his death. Using still photographs of the scenes Thomas described, which Lichtner planned to take himself, as a background for Thomas' own voice reading the story, he hoped to make a half-hour "package" which would appeal to TV viewers of all ages.

Lichtner spent three frustrating months working through an assortment of agents and lawyers in New York and London, England, before rights were cleared. Then he tried to find financial backers, but could interest no one in what seemed to them a hare-brained scheme with little prospect of profit. But by then Lichtner was obsessed with the idea and was determined to see it through. So he gambled. He withdrew all his savings from the bank, and with his wife, child and one still camera, set out for Wales early last December.

Our Cover:

The full-colour lithographed reproduction is of ADORATION OF THE MAGI, by Gentile da Fabriano (c. 1370-1427). Painted in 1423 for the church of Santa Trinita in Florence, Italy, it is now displayed in the Uffizi gallery in that city. Considered the best work of the painter extant, it is filled with warmth and colour, yet it has dignity, making it ideal for presentation on our cover.

Festival Presents

A Cradle of Willow

AN UNUSUAL NATIVITY play set in the English countryside, which was presented on CBC-TV's Festival series last year, will be repeated on Christmas Eve (Monday, December 24). Entitled A Cradle of Willow, it was written by English playwright Dorothy Wright in 1952, and first performed at Cheltenham, England. Starred in the 90-minute production by Eric Till are Leo Ciceri and Dino Narizzano, with Eric Christmas and Tony Van Bridge.

The drama involves an appealing group of master-basketmakers. As Miss Wright points out in her introduction, "it doesn't matter" where it is set. Although the locale is dateless and nameless, it is obviously somewhere in the West country of England, not only because of the dialect Miss Wright uses for her characters, but also because that part of England is a rich source of the osiers (willows) used in basket-weaving, and also, unfortunately, full of the searing dampness that invites ague, from which some of the basket-weavers suffer. Families of them still plying their trade there today can trace their ancestry back through generations of weavers who have made their headquarters in that part of Western England for centuries.

The author's insistence on timelessness in her drama is emphasized by Robert Lawson's sets and Margaret Lurnet's costumes, which form an effective but unobtrusive background for the moving story. Scenes from the CBC-TV production last Christmas are seen here in photographs by Dale Barnes, Henry Fox and Albert Crookshank.

The village characters with their little peculiarities and weaknesses are headed by master weaver Breague (Geoffrey Alexander), whose wife (Hilary Vernon) is dying from the effects of the damp, unhealthy marshland. Breague's affable but simple-minded cousin and apprentice, Will (Dino Narizzano) is in love with the local innkeeper's daughter, Tansy (Toby Tarnow). Another leading villager is Martin (Leo Ciceri), a draftsman who is embittered because blindness put an end to his promising career as a falconer. Comic relief in the story is provided by a skeptic, Randall (Eric Christmas), and pathos by the foreman weaver, Hoad (Tony Van Bridge), who is married to a mad woman (Moya Fenwick).

As if the community didn't have enough worries, it is constantly plagued by tax collectors, and a census is being threatened, though the weavers don't know why. As the play develops, its author shows that each of her characters is longing for the protection and inspiration of a Messiah, for a variety of personal reasons.

Christmas

with Canadian Indian Children

Christmas has all the magic and excitement for Indian children that it has for others, EYES OF CHILDREN on CBC-TV proves

WHEN CBC PRODUCER George Robertson went to the Kamloops Indian Residential School to make a film about the students' preparations for Christmas, he was so charmed by the children's naturalness, and by the appeal of their personalities, ranging from shyly wistful, pig-tailed little girls to impish boys with dancing, black-button eyes, that what he planned originally as a 15-minute film turned into one of half-hour length. Titled Eyes of Children, it will be seen on CBC-TV Christmas Day.

The Indian children are shown in their classrooms, on the playground, brushing their teeth en masse, saying their prayers, going to bed, and preparing for the approaching holidays and for Christmas Day itself, with stars in their eyes. Viewers will see them painting Christmas decorations, proudly decking themselves out in costumes to rehearse nativity tableaux, and practicing Christmas carols.

Robertson has the highest praise for the training given the boys and girls by the Sisters who run the school. He says the children have excellent manners — "Yes ma'am, no sir, thank you, please, are all said naturally, in an unforced manner." Their innocence and spontaneity radiate from every foot of the film. Filming was done by John Seale, and Arla Saare edited the program.

Between 400 and 450 children are in residence at the school, the largest of its kind in Canada. Built in 1923, it is run by the Roman Catholic Church under the supervision of the education division of the Indian Affairs Branch of the Canadian government. Its principal is Father G. P. Dunlop (Order of Mary Immaculate). The school has an outdoor swimming pool, basketball and boxing facilities, a large playground and a hockey team from time to time. The Sisters have trained the girls in folk dancing (Irish jigs and others, but not Indian dances) and the dancers have carried off honours at three or four carnival meets. Last July the National Film Board made a film at one of the meets.

Next to Ontario, British Columbia has the largest Indian population in Canada: 38,000, of whom approximately half are under 16 years of age. It is estimated that by 1982 the B.C. Indian population will have reached 75,000, which was the figure before 1835.

The majority of Indian boys and girls spread over the 1,600 reservations in B.C. attend the regular provincial schools. In the last three years the Department of Indian Affairs has arranged for a number of students to board with families in communities adjacent to provincial schools, and the system is reported to be working well. There are also 80 day schools adjacent to the reservations in communities where no other schooling, public or private, is available, and 12 residential schools which average 150 students each, where grades one to nine are taught.

At the Kamloops school 120 students in grades 10, 11, and 12 also sleep there (unique in the system), but take tuition at St. Anne's Academy in Kamloops with 400 white children of the area. The Department of Indian Affairs is aiming at greater integration of Indian students with the community wherever possible.

The relationship between the community and the Indian students is excellent in Kamloops, Department officials report. Eight of the residential schools in British Columbia are run under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church. There are three residential schools for Anglican children, and one run by the United Church at Port Alberni.

Standards and curricula at the day and residential schools for Indians have been as high as those in regular provincial schools since the Second World War, and the Indian schools are inspected regularly. About half the children at the residential schools come from isolated areas which do not have provincial or day schools, and most of the others are from broken homes. At Christmas time about half the children will be able to go home or will be invited to spend the holidays with families in the community.

A New Work by Godfrey Ridout

Soprano Lois Marshall, right, performs The Ascension, Sunday
on CBC Radio, with the CBC Symphony

THE WORLD PREMIERE of a new work by Canadian composer Godfrey Ridout will be given by soprano Lois Marshall and the CBC Symphony Orchestra in a radio broadcast to be heard Sunday, December 23, at 2:30 p.m. The work, entitled The Ascension, was commissioned by Miss Marshall with the aid of a grant from the Canada Council. A second Canadian work—the Symphony No. 1, by Harry Somers—will be heard in the program, which will be conducted by Victor Feldbrill, permanent conductor of the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra, and the broadcast will also include Honegger's Symphonic Movement No. 3.

The Ascension carries a sub-title, Cantiones Mysticae No. 2, linking it with an earlier work composed by Ridout for Miss Marshall. In 1953 he was invited to write a set of songs for the Canadian soprano, to be presented at a concert of Canadian music conducted by Leopold Stokowski in New York's Carnegie Hall. Ridout chose the Holy Sonnets of John Donne as his text, and the composition—the first set of Mystical Songs—was a complete success.

Recently, when Lois Marshall was provided with a grant from the Canada Council to commission a work from a Canadian composer, she went to Ridout once again. What she had in mind was a sacred work suitable for the concert stage, and at first Ridout planned to do a setting of some part of the Ordinary of the Mass. Later, however, he discarded this idea and chose as his text excerpts from the Propers for the Feast of the Ascension ("God is gone up with a merry noise") and the words of an Ascension Day hymn by Bishop Venantius Fortunatus (530-609 A.D.). Ridout has scored the work for solo voice and strings, with a solo trumpet being used in an obligato role.

Born in Toronto in 1918, Ridout became interested in music early in life, and in his teens became particularly attracted to the music of English composer Gustav Holst. He has never lost his affection for Holst and for the other composers of the English tradition—he cites Elgar, Holst and Walton as chief among his influences—a fact that is reflected in his compositions. His musical education as well, gained mainly at the Royal Conservatory in Toronto was conducted under the guidance of English-trained teachers, notably Ettore Mazzoleni and Dr. Healey Willan.

In 1948, Ridout was invited to join the Faculty of Music, University of Toronto, to teach harmony and history. He is now an assistant professor in the Faculty of Music.

Speaking of his own musical style, Ridout has said: "I keep falling back on the late romantics, but I notice with the last few works I have done there is a trend towards simplicity. I feel that I represent a certain school of thinking . . . the conservative element . . . a rather curious little island of reaction. But it is harder to be a reactionary now than it is to be a revolutionary, because everybody is a revolutionary."

Lois Marshall made her third tour of Russia this fall, then returned to North America for a tour of Canada and the United States. She will pay a return visit to Europe next spring, and sometime during the winter will be making recordings of German lieder in collaboration with pianist Glenn Gould.

The other Canadian composer represented in this week's concert, Harry Somers, is also Toronto-born and studied at the conservatory in that city, but under a completely different influence than that of Godfrey Ridout. Somers' teacher was John Weinzwieg, generally acknowledged as Canada's foremost proponent and teacher of 12-tone music. He also studied in Paris with Darius Milhaud, and in San Francisco with Robert Schmitz.

It was during his stay in Paris, in 1950, that Somers began work on his Symphony No. 1, and he completed the composition the following year, after his return to Toronto. Although Somers uses the tone-row principle as the basis of his work, he doesn't consider himself a 12-tone composer.

The Moon of Wintertime

This Christmas Day carol program takes its name from the first Canadian carol

"TWAS IN THE moon of wintertime, when all the birds had fled, that mighty Gitchi Manitou sent angel choirs instead. Before their light the stars grew dim, and wondering hunters heard the hymn: Jesus your king is born; In excelsis glorial"

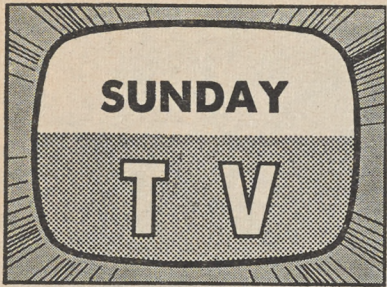

Those are the opening words of the first Canadian Christmas carol, originally written in the Huron Indian tongue by the famous Jesuit missionary and martyr, Jean de Brébeuf, for the members of the Huron tribe in Ontario to whom he brought the message of Christianity in the mid-1600s. A phrase from the verse provides the title for a special Christmas program of folk music The Moon of Wintertime, to be shown on the CBC television network on Christmas Day. Taking part in the telecast will be singers Klaas van Graft, Elan Stuart and David Campbell, and the Toronto folksong group, The Travellers. Frank Stalley will be host and narrator, and musical accompaniments will be provided by Ricky Hyslop and a seven-piece orchestra.

Father Brébeuf used a 16th century French tune as the setting for his little Indian carol, designed to tell the Christmas story to his Huron converts in terms they would understand—the shepherds became forest hunters, God became the Great Spirit, the Wise Men became Indian chiefs, bearing gifts of fox and beaver pelts, and he used the Indian term "moon" in tead of "season."

His little group of peace-loving Hurons apparently loved the carol, for they remembered it and passed it on by word-of-mouth long after Brébeuf was tortured and burned at the stake by invading Iroquois in 1649. The carol was passed on from generation to generation for almost 100 years, in fact, before it was written down by another French missionary, Father Villeneuve. It became very popular in a French-language version, as well as in an

Heritage

Songs of Praise. A program of seasonal and Christmas music covering many centuries. Featuring folk singers Alan Mills and Elan Stuart; women of the Festival Singers under the direction of Elmer Iseler; harpist Erica Goodman; and six boy singers from the choir at Grace Church-on-the Hill, Toronto. Musical numbers include:

O Jerusalem in the Morning.....Mills
Advent Carol .....boy choristers
The Virgin Mary .....Stuart Benedictus and Hosanna, from the Mass by Palestrina .....Festival Singers Selections from the Folk Songs of the Four Seasons
by Vaughan Williams .....Festival Singers

Country Calendar

Christmas in the Country. The Rev. A. C. Forrest, editor of the United Church Observer, and his daughter Diane, return to his former home in the Maple, Ontario, district near Toronto to take a look at Christmas in the country.

A Midsummer Night's Dream

A two-hour feature film with James Cagney, Dick Powell, Olivia DeHavilland, Joe E. Brown and Mickey Rooney. Filmed in 1935, this was one of the first attempts to bring Shakespeare to the screen, and Mickey Rooney's performance as Puck is a featured highlight.

Musical Mexico

A program in the International Hour exchange from CBS. Produced by Telesistema Mexicano. Cast includes singers Lucha Morena and Juana Gallo and the Mexicanan Ballet directed by Amelia Hernandez. Seven examples of Mexico's musical folklore are heard: Aztec Dance; Tarasco Indian Dance; Song of the Revolution; Love Songs; El Venadito (The Little Deer); Xapoteca Indian Dance; Dances of Veracruz.

Hostess for Telephone Hour

ACTRESS JANE WYATT, well-known as the star of many Hollywood films and as a featured player in the long-running television series Father Knows Best, will serve as hostess, narrator and reader on the special Christmas edition of The Telephone Hour, to be seen Sunday, December 23, on the CBC Television Network.

As her guests, she will welcome a number of singers, dancers and vocal groups, including Florence Henderson, musical comedy star best known for her role in the national company of The Sound of Music; Earl Wrightson, popular baritone of stage, television and concert hall; Mildred Miller, brilliant mezzo-soprano from the Metropolitan Opera; dancers Roberta Lubell and Michael Maule, both of whom have been featured with such companies as the New York City Ballet, Ballet Theatre and Jerome Robbins' Ballets U.S.A. as well as in Broadway musicals; the male quartet known as the Buffalo Bills; and the famed Roger Wagner Chorale, under the direction of its French-born founder and conductor.

The Telephone Hour chorus and orchestra will be conducted, as usual, by Donald Voorhees.

American Musical Theatre

Composer Benny Davis celebrates the 40th birthday of his musical hit, Margie, and reminisces about his years in show-business. The Jazz Eight, under the direction of Sammy Liner, perform Davis' I Still Get A Thrill Thinking Of You. Davis sings Margie, Babyface and Carolina Moon.

Walt Disney

Holiday Time at Disneyland. The exciting and colourful Magic Kingdom of Disneyland provides the backdrop for an entertaining hour of spectacular parades and dances depicting holidays and special events.

Hazel

George's socially-minded sister sends her daughter to an exclusive school in order to break up her romance with Hazel's nephew.

Flashback

Panelists Alan Millar, Allan Manings, Margaret Morris and Elaine Grand attempt to identify famous persons, objects and fads of the past. Moderator is Paul Soles.

Guest panelist is writer-radio personality Jean Tweed.

Ed Sullivan

Sullivan presents a special Christmas show filmed at Guantanamo Naval Base, Cuba.

Bonanza

Hoss tries to unite a young widow stranded in the West and a homesteader taking solace in whisky after a broken romance.

The Telephone Hour

An hour-long Christmas special with actress Jane Wyatt as hostess, narrator and reader. Guests include singers Earl Wrightson, Mildred Miller, Florence Henderson and the Buffalo Bills.

CBWT—Time Out For Music

Featuring singer Georges LaFleche with the Bob McMullin Combo. Producer, Jeffrey Anderson.

CBXT—Thriller

Knock 3-1-2. A man deep in gambling debts arranges for his wife's murder to collect her bank account.

THE MOON OF WINTERTIME

English translation made in 1926 by Canadian poet J. E. Middleton. The Travellers will begin Tuesday's telecast with the carol.

Other carols on the program will deal with many of the ancient customs and legends associated with Christmas. Ever since the Christ Child was laid in a manger, legends have been perpetuated about the animals who surrounded Him in the stable. One tale holds that, at midnight on Christmas Eve, animals are given the power of speech. Their conversation is described in an old English carol, said to date from the 12th century, to be sung by David Campbell and Klaas van Graft. Campbell also contributes an unusual Christmas number—an African chant carrying the simple message "Today is the birthday of the Lord", with an accompaniment devised by Josef Marais and based on the sound of a primitive African instrument called the mbira.

From the hundreds of Christmas lullabies which have originated in many different parts of the world,

Take Thirty

An 18th Century Christmas Eve is re-created with Anna Cameron and Paul Soles in period costumes and trumpeter Ellis McIntock and a brass band playing seasonal music. Members of Elmer Iseler's Festival Singers and Elan Stuart sing carols; Anna reads the narrative, 'Twas the Night Before Christmas.

Scarlett Hill

City Mice. Continuation of the story begun last week in which a city family in search of a change give up their apartment and move to the country near Scarlett Hill.

CBWT—Ladies First

The crèche has long played an important part in Nativity celebrations. Sister Mary Immaculate of the Oblate Sisters of the Sacred Heart, St. Boniface, repairs and creates figures used in the crèches. Mrs. Pierre Brunet explains how her family centre their Christmas devotions around the family crèche.

Razzle Dazzle

The Night Before Christmas. All the Razzle Dazzle characters are busy making last-minute preparations for Christmas and a Christmas Eve party is held at Martha Muffin's house.

CBXT—Gateway

Co-hosts Jim Crossen and Jim Schrumm with the timely and the topical on the Edmonton scene and the regular Monday feature — Bush Flying. Today, former Edmontonian R. B. "Barney" Phillips recalls the early adventures of two small pioneer airlines in Canada.

An 18th Century Christmas Eve

CBXT—Sports Page

With CBC sportscasters Glenn Bjarnason and Ernie Afaganis. This week, the final match on Keen Ice with championship curlers competing in points curling. The two competitors with the most points in the series play-off for the championship.

Festival

A Cradle of Willow. A Christmas drama by Dorothy Wright. Produced by Eric Till. In the lives of some basket-makers long ago, the coming of the Messiah is anticipated but not expected. Absorbed with their individual problems, they fail to recognize the signs, but a blind man sees the truth as the first Christmas dawns.

Christmas Eve At St. James'

Choral music from the Cathedral Church at St. James (Anglican), Toronto. John Hooper, organist and choirmaster at St. James, directs the church choir. A motet (a Gloria), composed by Harry Somers for use on the program, is featured.

two have been chosen for the program, a Czechoslovakian "rocking" carol and a Negro cradle song called A-Rocking All Night. Some of the songs will concern ancient and pagan Yuletide celebrations. One that goes back to Saxon times in Britain is the wassail bowl. "Wassail" is an old English word meaning "be thou hale", or as we might say it today "Here's to your health". In feudal England the peasants used to fill wooden bowls with steaming spiced ale and carry them to the man or house singing "Here we come a-wassailing". The lord and mistress of the manor would drink from the bowls and reward the wassailers with gifts. In Elizabethan and Stuart times the custom was continued by the "waits" who sang in the village streets.

Another hold-over from pre-Christian times was the custom of killing a wren as a ceremonial sacrifice. In Ireland, "wren-boys" used to go around from door to door singing for "money to bury the wren." Their song is one of those to be heard on the program. Others will include such gay little processional carols as Here come Three Ships, Dame Get Up and Bake Your Pies, and A Pig Went Out to Dig.

Christmas Day

TELEVISION NOTES

DECEMBER 25

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Messiah Christmas Music

Music from Handel's Messiah. Recorded at Llandaff Cathedral in Wales. Featuring a choir of 70 voices composed of singers from the Shelley Singers, the Lyrian Singers and the Glendower Singers. Conductor is Mansel Thomas. Soloists are Heather Harper, Marjorie Thomas and Roger Stalman.

The Queen's Christmas Message

The annual Commonwealth Christmas Message by Her Majesty the Queen. Following the address by the Queen, messages from Prime Minister Diefenbaker and CBC President Alphonse Ouimet are heard. (The Queen's message is repeated this evening immediately following the National News. There is no repeat of the Diefenbaker and Ouimet messages).

An Adventure for Christmas

A two-hour children's special for Christmas starring Tom Kneebone and Toby Tarnow.

Also included is Hansel and Gretel, a new film version of the Grimm fairy tale in which the actors are electronically-operated dolls. (The film was shown last Christmas morning on CBC-TV.)

Christmas at the Alberta Game Farm
Story of a little girl's dream after a visit to the Alberta Game Farm. Produced at CBC, Edmonton.

Christmas Singalong

A program of Christmas folksongs and other secular favourites by the cast of Singalong Jubilee, a series seen last summer. Host is Bill Langstroth with singers Elan Stuart, Bud Spencer, Jim Bennet and singer-instrumentalist Fred McKenna.

Red River Christmas

This original musical production from Winnipeg stars singer Doug Crosley, with Mary Nowell, Rolande Garnier, Florence Faiers and Cecil Semchyshyn. Orchestra is directed by Eric Wild. Original words and music are by Marian Waldman, with additional music by Eric Wild. Produced by Neil Andrews.

Six For Christmas

From Ottawa with comedian-impressionist Rich Little; French-Canadian singer Huguette White; pianist Charles Coleman; and three foreign university students.

The Worker in Sandalwood

A Christmas drama produced in Montreal by Fernand Ippersiel. Adapted for TV by Eric Cameron from a story by Marjorie Pickthall.

A youthful carpenter is hard-pressed when his master assigns him to complete a sandalwood jewel case, a gift for a wealthy woman, in time for Christmas. With two days remaining his task seems hopeless. Then help comes from an unexpected source.

Take Thirty

Music, pictures and words illustrate the two Christmas blessings of comfort and joy. They are portrayed through paintings, drawings, photographs and sculpture of children around the world.

The Eyes of Children

A Christmas program filmed at a residential school in Kamloops, B.C., where 450 children from Indian reservations anticipate Christmas in the midst of their everyday routines in the classroom and at play.

Ladies First

Mary Liz Bayer and Bill Guest offer viewers season's greetings; the program takes the form of a leisurely armchair journey to churches and temples in various part of the world.

Razzle Dazzle

Christmas Day in the Alley. Al Hamel builds a snowman while Howard throws snowballs and Michele Finney tries her new skis. Martha Muffin invites them all for Christmas dinner, but Percy Kidpester refuses, vowing that a law should be made to ban Christmas festivities.

CBXT—Pete and Gladys

Gladys masquerades as Santa Claus in order to win a prize.

Guest panelist is Lotta Dempsey, a Toronto Daily Star columnist.

The Moon of Wintertime

Christmas folksongs from many nations. Host is Frank Stalley. Vocalists include Elan Stuart; Klaas Van Graft; David Campbell; and The Travellers, a Toronto folksong group.

The Lively Arts

A Child's Christmas in Wales. This special filmed version of the famous Christmas story by the late Welsh poet Dylan Thomas, uses the animated "moving still-photo" technique, featuring film made in the Welsh village, Dolwyddedan, and the voice of the author narrating the story.

Program Notes

DECEMBER 26

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Take Thirty

A visit to the William Lyon Mackenzie home in Toronto where members of the Toronto Junior League and the Toronto Historical Board have re-created a 19th Century Christmas. Plum pudding, old-fashioned sweets and other Christmas fare are prepared on an antique cooking range. Paul Soles reads a story by Stephen Leacock, Hoodoo McFiggins' Christmas.

Scarlett Hill

City Mice. Continuing the story begun last week in which a family moves to the country near Scarlett Hill and finds there is great community interference in their private affairs.

CBWT-Ladies First

Canada's famous wildlife artist, Clarence Tilenius, is presently engaged in creating dioramas at the Ottawa museum. He talks about his work, about his recent trip to Europe and his impressions of Scandinavian artists.

Razzle Dazzle

Jamboree. Hiram Cornstasse invites everyone to his farm at Cucumber Corners for a special country show. The whole cast do square dances, jigs and reels and Howard distinguishes himself by becoming a one-man band.

CBWT-Children Of The World

Hostess Betty Nickerson introduces a collection of paintings by children from around the world. The paintings are of the various festivals which take place around Christmas. Producer, A. P. H. Scott.

CBXT-Dobie Gillis

On the advice of his older brother, Dobie tries a new approach to his lady-love.

Mr. Fix-It

Handyman Peter Whittall and announcer Rex Loring show how to use hand and power tools often received at Christmas.

Parade

The Limeliter's Sunnyside Up. Starring the Limeliter's, satirists and folk song trio, with guest singer Elan Stuart. They entertain a group of children who also join in with their singing and humor. A studio audience is made up of children. Musical numbers include Stay on the Sunnyside; Marty; Lollipop Tree; and Wabash Cannonball.

The Formative Years

Road to Confederation. A five-part National Film Board series telling the stories of people and events at the boiling point of Canada's struggle for self-government, and giving an accurate portrayal of history as it happened.

Part III. The Lion of Quebec. (Georges-Etienne Cartier). As joint premier with John A. Macdonald, Georges-Etienne Cartier skilfully allayed the fear of party and sectional leaders, convincing them that federal union would protect, rather than weaken, Quebec's cherished rights of language and religion.

CBWT-On the Scene

Film on the International Film Festival taking place at Winnipeg's Pace Cinema. Producer, Perry Rosemond.

CBWT's On the Scene visits the International Film Festival at Pace Cinema, Wednesday. Larry Glover, above, describes the scene.

THE NEW CBC SERIES Championship Golf, which is proving very popular with sports fans across the country, features two of the best known of Canadian golfers in this week's program. East meets West as Edmonton's Henry Martell and Toronto's Al Balding play each other for the top prize of $500 in an 18-hole round of medal-play golf.

This Christmas week of programming also features the second of three films taken in Rome during the 1960 Olympic Games and, though information is sketchy as to content of the film, if it's as well done as the recent British Empire Games footage, sports fans of all ages should enjoy it.

Five-pin bowling continues from Toronto's O'Connor Bowl on Saturday afternoon and in the evening, what promises to be an exciting hockey game comes to you from the Forum in Montreal. With the top four teams so tightly bunched in the N.H.L. standings there's a lot riding on each and every game, but tonight's has that much more, with the Habs playing host to the Chicago Blackhawks.

The Hawks' lineup is liberally sprinkled with former Canadian chattels who all seem to perform with a mite more vigor when tackling their ex-teammates. At the time of this writing, the Chicago Blackhawks lead the N.H.L. standings with a two-point bulge over the second place Detroit Red Wings. However, there are

Playdate:

Rain in the Morning

SUPPOSE YOU'RE a pleasant, soft-spoken housewife in your early thirties. You like to think of yourself—a little ironically, perhaps—as incapable and timid. You prefer to be told what to do, rather than think things out for yourself. In fact, you exploit your incompetency a bit.

But you're really an intelligent person, friendly, happily married, with a small son. On one particular morning, a rainy, dismal sort of day when you'd rather curl up on the couch with a magazine and a second cup of coffee than dig into household chores, you've just kissed your husband off to work, seen your son on his way to school, and are putting off the thought of all the preparations ahead of you—an important business contact of your husband's is coming to dinner—when the door bell rings.

In comes a bedraggled magazine salesman. You don't need any more magazines, but you decide to let him warm up and dry out for a bit. He seems a clever, persuasive and perceptive young man, but there is something strange about him. You can't pin it down, and it makes you uneasy. He shows no signs of leaving. You hint. He ignores it.

Finally, warned by your sixth sense, you tell him to go, at once. He refuses, and he makes it plain that he is in command of the situation. His threat of what will happen if you don't act as if his being there were perfectly normal, even when a neighbour drops in, frightens you into letting him order you about. Where does he come from? What makes him so strange? As the probable answers dawn on you, the hours gradually develop into a morning of terror. And as your fear mounts, you feel as if you are being swept on in a roaring flood of sinister unreality, from which there is no escape. But in the midst of it, you learn something about yourself which you didn't realize before.

That's the situation in Rain in the Morning, an unusual and gripping play by two American writers, Paula Fox and Marjorie Kellogg, which CBC-TV's Playdate will present on Thursday night, December 27. Production is by Melwyn Breen. Aileen Seaton and Jonathan White have the leading roles. Others in the cast are Robert Goodier, Barbara Hamilton, James Edmonds and Lloyd Chester.

CHRISTMAS DAY PROGRAMS

11:00 p.m., will be the Northern Messenger, a program of messages to and from those who make their homes at remote locations in the Canadian North.

TELEVISION SERVICE will begin with a 45-minute telecast of the Christmas music from Handel's Messiah, filmed at Llandaff Cathedral in Wales by the BBC. Then will follow the three Christmas messages mentioned above, after which CBC-TV will present An Adventure for Christmas, a fantasy for children starring Toby Tarnow and Tom Kneebone. Another program primarily for children follows when CBC Edmonton pre-about waters of a certain pool that have magic curative powers. The boys bottle up all the pool and settle back for the money to start rolling in.

Country Hoedown

Singing, dancing and comedy, country style. Starring host Gordie Tapp, singers Tommy Common and Tommy Hunter, the Hames Sisters, fiddler Al Cherney, and Singing, Swinging Eight, and caller Johnny Davidson. Also fiddler Wally Traugott and the orchestra of Lloyd Cooper.

Guest is Vancouver singer Lorraine Foreman who, with the rest of the cast, recalls the most popular tunes since the show was first telecast six years ago.

Tommy Ambrose

Musical variety from Toronto.

Tommy's special guest is young U.S. vocalist Bobby Rydell.

Empire

Stopover on the Way to the Moon. A young man is put on parole when he has a fight with the foreman of a Garret labor gang.

CBWT—Biography

Fiorello La Guardia. The story of this fiery political crusader. They called him "The Little Flower" and he became a legend to the people of New York City. He banned the burlesque, championed the cause of the little man and spent years fighting party bosses, corrupt judges and professional politicians.

sents Christmas at the Alberta Game Farm, in which Al Oeming, proprietor of the farm, which is a home for many different wild and domestic animals, recounts stories and legends associated with animals at Christmas.

CBC Halifax will present Christmas Singalong, a program of seasonal music in the folk idiom featuring cast members of last summer's Singalong Jubilee: singing host Bill Langstroth, singers Elan Stuart, Bud Spencer and Jim Bennet, guitarist Fred McKenna and the Jubilee Singers. Viewers will then be taken to Winnipeg, for A Red River Christmas, an original musical production with words and music by Marian Waldman and Eric Wild, starring singers Doug Crosley, Mary Nowell, Rolande Garnier, Florence Faiers and Cecil Semchyslyn.

Two children's programs, Chéz Hélène and Nursery School Time, will be seen in their regular time periods, and then viewers will see CBC Ottawa's contribution to Christmas Day programming: Six for Christmas. This is an informal visit to the home of Canadian comedian-impressionist Rich Little, who welcomes five young friends as his guests: singer Huguette White, pianist Charles Coleman, and three university students whose homes are in Sweden, The Netherlands, and Hong Kong.

From Montreal, will come a drama entitled The Worker in Sandalwood, adapted for television by Eric Cameron from a story by Marjorie Pickthall.

Take Thirty will present a special Christmas program, and viewers will then see CBC Vancouver's contribution to the day's programming, Eyes of Children. Howard the Turtle will welcome young viewers to the special Christmas edition of Razzle Dazzle.

Regular programming will prevail through most of Christmas Night, but following Front Page Challenge there will be a special program of folk music entitled The Moon of Wintertime. And The Lively Arts will present a fascinating film based on Dylan Thomas' A Child's Christmas in Wales.

2:00 p.m.—MET. OPERA

Der Rosenkavalier (The Knight of the Rose). Opera in three acts by Richard Strauss.

Cast: Soprano Regine Crespin as Princess von Werdenberg; bass Otto Edelman as Baron von Lerchenau; mezzo-soprano Hertha Topper as Octavian; and soprano Anneliese Rothenberger as Sophie. Conducted by Lorin Maazel. Place, Vienna. Time, the 18th Century.

Act. I. The bedroom of the Princess von Werdenberg. Her husband is absent and she is entertaining Octavian, a youth of 17. Baron von Lerchenau is announced.

The youth hides behind a screen and dresses himself as a chambermaid. He emerges demurely to the great appreciation of the Baron, who makes open advances to the supposed maid. The Baron wishes to have someone take a silver rose, his betrothal token, to young Sophie von Faninal, the daughter of an army sutler who has recently been made a noble. The Princess thinks of Octavian and assures the Baron of its safe delivery.

The Baron leaves the box containing the silver rose and departs. Octavian resumes his proper attire and the Princess tells him how unhappy she is with her marriage. He assures her of his undying affection but she is cynical and the youth leaves in a huff.

Act. II. The House of Herr von Faninal. Faninal and Sophie await the coming of the messenger with the silver rose. Octavian is preceded by a flourish of trumpets and a company of footmen. He sings of the silver rose which he gracefully presents to Sophie. The Baron bustles in and embraces Sophie, to Octavian's dismay, and breaks into a waltz song of boastful, amorous character. The two scandal-mongers, Annina and Valzacchi, suspect there is something between Octavian and Sophie and inform the Baron. A quarrel ensues and the Baron is pricked in the arm by a sword thrust from Octavian. Octavian departs and the Baron soothes his wounded feelings in wine. Annina brings him a letter from the Princess' supposed chambermaid (Octavian) saying she will meet him the following night.

Act. III. A questionable hotel. Supper for two is laid on the table decorated with candles. The scandal-mongers' plan is to station spies everywhere so that everything the Baron says or does can be heard and seen.

The Baron and Octavian, dressed as the maid, enter. When the Baron tries to embrace his companion a head appears from a trap door in the floor. The Baron is mystified by this and also by the fact that the maid seems to resemble someone.

Annina appears protesting that she is a deserted wife and points to four children who crowd around the Baron calling him "papa." The Baron calls the police and is himself detained by the police commissar, who asks him to explain his presence in such a place with a young woman. Faninal enters in time to hear an uncomplimentary remark made by the exasperated Baron.

When the Princess appears, the Baron declares he has done nothing to prevent his marriage with Sophie. Suddenly, he comprehends the affair of the Princess with Octavian and identifies the rose bearer as the maid he has been courting. He hurries way, thoroughly humiliated. The Princess, resigned to the loss of Octavian, induces Faninal to give his blessing to the young pair and all depart, the two lovers last.

The Singing Boys of Mexico

SOME 7,000 FEET UP in the verdant Sierra Tarasca mountains, just over 200 miles west of Mexico City, stands the old Spanish colonial city of Morelia, a living museum of pink stone. Its gracious palaces and monasteries, and gorgeous baroque churches, with their coloured tiles, carved altars, rich vestments and fluttering, polychrome angels, look down on one of the most beautiful provinces in Mexico, Mochoaca, with its small, secret cities hidden in the mountain folds. Its poor but handsome, aristocratic people with their elegant manners retain the spirit of the once-great Tarascan Indian Empire, the only unconquered rival of the Aztecs.

One of the high domes in the pink city of Morelia rises from the oldest conservatory of music in the Americas, the College of Roses (Colegio de las Rosas), founded in 1743, the year Handel's Messiah was first performed in London, 13 years before Mozart was born, and 122 years before the first conservatory in the United States was established, at Oberlin, Ohio.

At the College 28 boys between the ages of eight and 13, most of them from impoverished homes, gather in the music room of the old cloister and, looking like urchins in their poor clothes, sing like angels for several hours each day. They are the Singing Boys of Mexico (Los Ninos Cantores de Morelia), one of the most famous boys' choirs in the world, and an enthusiastic modern development from an old musical tradition.

They have made four tours of the United States, and this year visited Canada for the first time. While in Toronto late last month they recorded a program especially for CBC radio's Project '63. It will be heard Sunday, December 23, at 5:00 p.m. The boys will sing works by Kodaly, Bartok, and Carl Orff, as well as a selection of Mexican carols. Production is by Terence Gibbs.

Charles Flandreau, American travel author whose most famous book is Viva Mexico!, believed that "all children should be required to be Mexican until age 15." Certainly Mexican youngsters have a great artistic capacity, often away beyond their years, and a wonderfully responsive musical spirit. Hundreds of boys have studied and sung at Morelia for over 200 years, but their talents were not widely known outside Mexico until about 13 years ago, when Maestro Bernal Jiménez determined to organize a special choir and train it to compete with the best in the world.

He prevailed upon Maestro Romano Picutti, then leader of the Vienna Boys Choir, to go to Morelia to recruit and coach the boys. Rapidly an outstanding ensemble was developed, and it has been praised highly everywhere it has performed.

Historic RCMP Chapel Scene of Xmas Service

ON CHRISTMAS DAY at 5:35 p.m., CBC Radio will present a broadcast of the Christmas church parade and service recorded December 16th at the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Training Division Headquarters in Regina.

The service, for members and wives of the training establishment, is the last church parade before Christmas.

The parade and inspection preceding the church service will be outdoors if weather permits. On parade will be officers, non-commissioned officers and recruits from the training division. The Regina area trumpet and drum band will be present under the command of Corporal W. Perry. The inspection will be taken by Assistant Commissioner E. H. Perlson. Prior to the church service broadcast, will be a short description of this event.

After the parade and inspection, a service will be held in the historic chapel situated off the main parade ground at the barracks. The service will be conducted by the Right Reverend G. F. C. Jackson, Anglican Chaplain to the force and Bishop of the Qu'Appelle Diocese. Lessons will be read by Assistant Commissioner Perlson and by Superintendent H. C. Forbes, Officer Commanding, Depot (Training) Division.

Music by the RCMP choir will be included in the broadcast, under the direction of Sergeant G. L. Skatfeld. Church organist will be Constable D. Simpson.

Regina became headquarters of the RCMP in 1883, when the city was chosen provisional capitol of the Northwest Territories. The tiny RCMP chapel, where the service will take place, is the only original building left in the training area. It was constructed in 1883 as a canteen, but Mrs. Mary Herchmer, wife of the Commissioner, felt deeply the need for a place of worship for the men and their families who lived in the small community. Consequently, in 1885 members of the force completed the work of changing the building into a chapel, and thus it stands today.

The interior of the chapel is replete with tradition. At the end wall of the chancel are two life-sized figures of uniformed mounties in stained glass windows. One window displays an armed mountie in an attitude of mourning, the other a trumpeter sounding reveille—symbolic of the last awakening.

These stained glass windows were a gift of the Maritime Provinces Association in 1944. They are dedicated to men of Maritime birth who died in service of the force. The windows are exceedingly realistic. Every detail is clear and in life size. The colours—the authentic scarlet, blue and gold of the force—stand out brilliantly.

There are two other memorial windows on each side of the nave. These are dedicated to men of the force who gave their lives in the Second World War. Other memorials to ex-Commissioners, to men who died in Northern service, and a few individual commemoratives are engraved in brass and bronze plaques which attractively line the dark oak walls. One such plaque reads, "To the memory of the men of the Dawson Patrol who lost their lives in the discharge of their duty on patrol from Fort McPherson to Dawson City, Yukon Territories, 1911."

There have been many distinguished visitors to this chapel. Among these, King George and Queen Elizabeth on their 1939 tour, and the present Queen Elizabeth in 1951 with the Duke of Edinburgh. Certainly they must have found, as thousands of visitors to the chapel each year do, a profound impression of quiet dignity and tradition in this little church on the prairie.

only three points separating first place from fourth place and the race doesn't figure to get any more one-sided between now and then.

The usual Sunday afternoon N.F.L. game which has been one of the highlights of the fall and early winter television programs won't be seen this Sunday—unless of course there should be a playoff necessary. With each team having one game left to play, the New York Giants have already clinched the Eastern Division championship for the second year in a row, while the Green Bay Packers have clinched at least a tie for the Western Division title. At the moment, the Packers have a record of 12 wins and one loss and their nearest rivals, the Detroit Lions, have 11 wins and 2 losses.

For their final game, the Packers travel to Los Angeles to play the Rams, who have the worst record of any team in the National League, so they don't figure to upset Green Bay with so much at stake for the Packers.

The Lions' final game is against the "Monsters of the Midway," the always tough and durable Chicago Bears. If no playoff is required to settle the issue between the Packers and Lions, the next N.F.L. action will be the Pro final from Yankee Stadium, New York, between the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants for the second successive year. That game will be televised over the CBC national network on Sunday, December 30, and it should be a honey with the Giants nursing that large sized grudge over the whomping they received at the hands of the Packers in Green Bay last year—which, if memory serves me correctly, was 37-0 for the Packers.

... A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL!

A CHILD'S CHRISTMAS IN WALES

They made their headquarters in the little village of Dolwyddelan in the Snowdon mountain district, where they waited for snow to fall and turn the countryside into a Christmas card scene. But no snow fell. Days became weeks, and the villagers, who had become intrigued with the project, joined the Lichtner family in praying for snow. Meanwhile, Lichtner went about with his camera, talking to men, women and children in the streets and in their homes, and they were delighted to co-operate fully as models. He shot hundreds of stills of interiors, and views of local Christmas customs in and around the schools, homes and chapels. And he waited and prayed for snow.

Finally, three days before Christmas, the skies opened and a great fluffy white mantle descended and blanketed the village and surrounding hills, softening the harsh outlines of stone cottage and wall, providing a glistening backdrop for the festive scenes described in Thomas' story, and intoxicating the children with its possibilities for frolicking and snowballing. Lichtner made over 3,000 still photos and finished the project in the fifth week.

He returned to New York to work on the processing. It took several months to shoot the final film (using the animation, or "moving still" technique), spacing the Caedmon-recorded voice-track with the pictures and arranging to have background music composed and recorded. Approximately 350 of the stills Lichtner took were used in the film. When he started to look around for a composer, he asked his friend, Don Heckman, jazz composer and critic, to help him find the right man for the job. To illustrate exactly what he wanted, he lent Heckman recordings of harp music he had brought back from Wales, and talked expansively about the mood the piece should have, and the type of instrumentation which he felt would best help to interpret it. Later, when Lichtner enquired if Heckman had managed to locate someone who had the qualities they wanted, and who would be interested in the on-spec. project, Heckman said he wanted to write the music himself.

The result of all those months of work is a delightfully moving and nostalgic half-hour program which CBC-TV's The Lively Arts will present on Christmas night, December 25. Vincent Tovell, who organizes and produces the series, says the film "has a charming, magic quality which should appeal to the whole family. Although it is about a Welsh village it has a universality which could be applied to families anywhere at Christmas."

'Red River Christmas'

Has Historic Fort as Setting

LOVE TRANSCENDS TIME to overcome the loneliness of a young man at Christmas, in the original musical, Red River Christmas, scheduled for the afternoon of December 25 on CBC-TV. Story, words and music for the 30-minute CBC Winnipeg production have been written by Marian Waldman, with additional music by Eric Wild.

Doug Crosley stars as a melancholy youth alone on Christmas Eve, wandering about the grounds of Lower Fort Garry, an authentic early 19th century settlement still standing near Winnipeg. To his surprise, he encounters lovely Mary Nowell, her family and friends, preparing a Christmas Eve party. Doug joins in the celebration and enjoys it, although mysterious circumstances surround it that he does not understand.

Other members of the family are Rolande Garnier, the mother; Florence Faiers, a sister, and Cecil Semchyshyn, a cousin. The 17-piece orchestra is under the baton of Eric Wild.

Doug Crosley is rapidly developing into one of Canada's top young TV performers, following chorus work with the Gino Silvi Singers, guest spots on many network series, including the Hit Parade, and more recently, Juliette and his own Swingalong show.

Mary Nowell, whose real name so well suits the lead in a Christmas musical, was a frequent soloist this summer with the Swingalong chorus.

Rolande Garnier is a frequent contributor to French and English network musical programs and has played several leading roles at Winnipeg's Summer Theatre.

Petite Florence Faiers has been singing ever since she learned to talk. She studied at the Royal Academy of Music in London, England, from 1954 to 1958, before returning to Winnipeg. Since that time she has appeared in a wide range of CBC Winnipeg radio and television series, the most recent of which was Swingalong.

Cecil Semchyshyn is another member of the Swingalong chorus, whose musical history includes work with Toronto's Carl Tapscott Singers and the leading role of Emile DuBecque, the planter, in a Winnipeg production of South Pacific.

Marian Waldman, who has composed nine varied selections for Red River Christmas, is well-known in Winnipeg as a radio actress and playwright. Among a long list of writing credits are the TV series, Dancing Storybook, and the radio serial, Kapitan's Fortune. This is Miss Waldman's first television venture into the songwriting field.

Eric Wild's musical career has been both long and distinguished. He has arranged and conducted for radio, television, the Navy Show during the war years, and Winnipeg's outdoor Rainbow Stage. He has composed music for many radio dramas, and his original ballet, The Shooting of Dan McGrew, is now in the permanent repertoire of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet and has been filmed by the National Film Board.

Producer Neil Andrews has accepted the challenge of an original Prairie musical with tremendous enthusiasm. "In the entertainment world, there's nothing quite so gratifying as helping to create something absolutely new," says Neil of his Christmas production.

One of the well-preserved buildings within the stone walls of Lower Fort Garry, 19 miles north of Winnipeg. It was built 1831-33 by the Hudson's Bay Company.
